Did I hear you say, "I can identify with Charlie Brown"? Yes, sometimes we all need a little help getting life's deck chair unfolded.

One of the reasons I love New Year's Day is that it gives us all an opportunity for a clean start. We can start anew. The things we didn't resolve or complete last year, things that we have held on to and accumulated emotionally, things that have cluttered up our lives can mentally be wiped off the table and we can start over.

Isn't it appropriate that the old year is portrayed as Father Time and the new year is portrayed as a baby? The old year passes into history and the new year arrives with great promise. What happened in the past is left with the old year and the new year lies before us with great potential to do grand things and to become what we have been called to be.

I hope that one of the things you resolve to do this new year is to be here every week as we work and worship together for the glory of God. Everyone needs a place to belong, friends on whom they can rely, an opportunity to use the gifts God has given them and the prospect of learning what God desires of us the rest of our lives. There is no better place – in fact – there is no other place to find all of that in a spiritual context other than the church.

If you need some help unfolding your deck chair, ask someone at Troy to give you a hand. There's nothing wrong with that. There may come a time when you see someone who is struggling with their deck chair and you can help them unfold it.
